Girl Snoozing in Window Under Hypnotist's Care

The sleeping beauty who spent the night in the show window of a store at 415 E. Broadway and near 17th street. District police in charge of looking through the lawbooks, still was seeing wood undisturbed by the goodnatured air-lifters.

The girl, 21-year-old Barbara Rogers, supposedly was under a hypnotic spell for purposes of the show. Police do not know their name.

Unable to discover a law that the act Capt. De Lino, the hypnotist, who put her to sleep, might be breaking, police said it was all right with them so long as the law was not broken. She had a blanket that would block the sidewalk.
