DR. DE ZITA

Wednesday morning at the Senate Cafe. The bedroom furniture used in the lobby is furnished by Empire Furniture Co.; her beauty work by Anderson's Beauty Shop; ambulance by Fielda-Boen; pajamas by Ramona Shoppe.

Dr. de Zita's real name is William Michael Achillus de Orgler.

De Orgler says he was a member of the foreign legion from 1908 to 1912, participating in skirmishes against Riffs and Arabs in Casa Blanca and Tangier, French Morocco, and Tetuan, Spanish Morocco.

He has assisted in making photoplays dealing with the foreign legion. He aided in the technical direction of Beau Geste, Beau Sabreur, The Desert Song, Morocco, and Renegade. In Renegade, he doubled for Warner Baxter in distant shots.

He said his psycho-analysis was based on both psychology and astrology. He has practiced medicine in Washington, Oregon and Montana, he said.

Casa Blanca he described as "the hell hole of North Africa." He is a Moroccan.

To Awaken Girl From Hypnotic Spell Tonight

Barbara Rogers, Plainview girl who is under the hypnotic spell of Dr. De Zita at the Ritz Theater today, will be awakened at the close of Dr. De Zita's performance at the theater tonight at 10:30. She was hypnotized at 9:30 last night.

She slept last night in the lobby of the theatre and today has been under hallucinations that she is some famous movie star. At times she is Loretta Young, again Joan Bennett, Bebe Daniels or others.

She ate a hearty breakfast this morning and will be served tea at 4 o'clock. She is taking an imaginative horse-back ride this afternoon and then going on a fanciful European tour.
