
J. M. RAINWATER.

Brenham, Tex., July 16.—The dispatch in yesterday's papers from Corsicana announcing the death of Mr. J. M. Rainwater by jumping in a well at that place was read with sorrow by many of the old citizens of this county, as Mr. Rainwater resided here prior to the war, enlisted in company E, fifth Texas cavalry, Green's brigade, as a private, and made a good soldier, and was universally esteemed by all who knew him, especially by the members of his company, who in 1864 elected him to the position of second lieutenant, which he held to the close of the war. Soon after the war he left Brenham and accepted a position with commission merchants at Navasota, and remained with them for a number of years, until his mind became impaired, rendering him incapable.
