MURRELL Cemetery, so named because of its location on the old Ollie Murrell farm, was surveyed for me by Doyle Reddick, who currently manages the property. It is in the woods north of Glaze Creek Church, near the Missouri line, and Doyle had to reach it on horseback.

NELSON Cemetery (also known as Alphin Cemetery), is two miles north and one mile west of Attica off Thomas Road. A sign on a tree indicates the fence row road which leads to the cemetery. Maintenance is financed by the Nelson Cemetery Fund, c/o Bank of Pocahontas, Pocahontas AR 72455.

NORTHSIDE Cemetery, which is relatively new, is beside the Northside Church of Christ on Arkansas Highway 115, on the north side of the town of Maynard.

OAK GROVE Cemetery is behind the Oak Grove Methodist Church in the town of Attica. The land was acquired in 1881 from T. S. and Emily Simington. Maintenance is coordinated by Cliff Haulcroft, Roy Potter, and Liston Simington, of Route 5, Route 3 and 1413 N. Carter, Pocahontas AR 72455, respectively.

OLD JACKSON Cemetery is old indeed. There is an eight year old child buried here who died in 1828, which is the earliest date of death I found. The information is scratched on a glade stone and is not very clear. The cemetery is near the former town of Jackson which was an early county seat of Lawrence County. A sign on the south side of Ravenden Springs Road, near its junction with North Star Route, indicates the entrance road. Maintenance is coordinated by Clara Keech, North Star Route, Box 9-A, Imboden AR 72434.

OLD PITMAN Cemetery is at the north end of Pitman Road. A former resident used the glade stones and some tombstones to make a foundation for his house. The house has since been torn down and the stones buried. This is the site of the Hix, then Pitman Ferry. A Civil War battle was fought here and the dead buried in a trench. The bodies were exhumed after the war and transferred to other cemeteries.

OLD REYNO Cemetery is near the former town site of Reyno before it was moved to its present site. Just north of the junction of Cherry Cemetery Road and Lawnbird Cemetery Road is a house beside which, in a plowed field, is the cemetery. Although it is inside a wrought iron fence, the undergrowth was very heavy and it is possible that I may have missed some broken or fallen stones.

OLD UNION Cemetery is one and one half miles north of Arkansas Highway 62 on the Old Union Church Road. The church and school are no longer active but the building still stands. Maintenance is coordinated by Lucille Hufstедler, North Star Route, Imboden AR 72434.

OSBORNE Cemetery is in a patch of dense woods south of Stockman Road and east of Arkansas Highway 67. It was used by blacks in the early 1900's when the land was owned by the Osborne family. It is listed on the USGS map as Osburn Cemetery.

OVERBY Cemetery is south of Maynard, on Washington Road, one half mile east of Arkansas Highway 115. Maintenance is coordinated by Ronald Kerley and David L. Williams, both of Route 1, Maynard AR 72444.

PALESTINE Cemetery is beside the Palestine Church of Christ on Palestine Road, one mile east of Arkansas Highway 251. The stone faced church is one of the oldest in the county.

PARKER-COX Cemetery, which derives its name from its use as a burial site by both the Parker and the Cox families, is one mile east of Supply Road, one mile north of Arkansas Highway 328. The dirt road into the cemetery is very poor.

PETTIT Cemetery is east of Arkansas Highway 115 at the end of Warner Road on land once owned by Isaac J. Warren. One grave marker is all that remains in this family graveyard in the Sherman Hills community.
